About this page

This page is meant to be used in 3 ways:

- On the main page, it is transcluded without any parameter to display the "image of the week" for the current week.
- Transcluded on any page with 2 parameters ("year" and "week"), it will display the "image of the week" for the specified week of the specified year.
- Viewed directly (as it is now), it displays the "image of the week" for the previous, current and next weeks, allowing to quickly verify the upcoming image (is there one? with a decent legend) on a topic different from the current and previous weeks?) and providing hints about defining and modifying future "images of the week".

This page was last modified on 27 September 2015, at 05:42.

Ballets Russes

The Ballets Russes was an early 20th century ballet company notable for commissioning and staging some of the greatest ballets of the 20th century including Les Sylphides, Le Spectre de la Rose, Petrushka The Rite of Spring, and The Firebird. Great talents associated with the company included impresario Sergei Diaghilev, dancers Vaslav Nijinsky, Tamara Karsavina, Anna Pavlova, artists Pablo Picasso, Henri Matisse, and composers Claude Debussy and Igor Stravinsky. The company performed between 1909 and 1929.

Anna Pavlova

Anna Pavlova was a ballerina. She was born on 12 February 1881 in Saint Petersburg, Russia to unwed parents. She entered the Imperial Ballet School at age 10, and graduated in 1899 at age 18. She was named prima ballerina in 1906 after her performance in Giselle.

In 1905, she danced the Dying Swan. This role became universally identified with her. In the early 20th century, she founded her own company. In 1912, she settled in London, and proved instrumental in developing British ballet. She danced in the United States between 1914 and 1917.

Pavlova died on Friday 23 January 1931 about 12:30 am. She was cremated, and her ashes placed in a columbarium at Golders Green Crematorium. For many years, it has been suggested that her cremains be sent to Russia.

The Carnival of the Animals

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

This article is about Saint-Saëns' 1886 suite. For Christopher Wheeldon's 2003 ballet to Saint-Saëns' music, see Carnival of the Animals (ballet).

The Carnival of the Animals (Le carnaval des animaux) is a humorous musical suite of fourteen movements by the French Romantic composer Camille Saint-Saëns. The work was written for private performance by an ad hoc ensemble of two pianos and other instruments, and lasts around 25 minutes.
